

PLACES TO SEE IN MARSEILLE, FRANCE

With a population of 1,604,000 as of 2007, Marseille is that the second-largest town in France and favorite port. Marseille takes pride in its uniqueness and variety. so it's not just like the rest of France; being the key entranceway from Africa, it's a Mediterranean flavor which will inform you a lot of of Africa than Europe.

Marseille is by far the oldest town in France, chemical analysis back 2500 years. Its rough and tumble history remains evident nowadays. several travelers could take into account Marseille to be a little of a dirty and rough place, however at a similar time it's going to even be seen as a colourful, exciting town. Marseille has recently been upgrading and smartening its image once decades of decay and decline. A new completed train link to Paris may be a huge boost for town, and plenty of buildings square measure being restored.

The old Port is that the main harbor and dockage of town. Fort St. Nicholas and Fort St. Jean are 2 huge forts that guard this section of town. At the tip of the harbor is that the site of the daily fish market. conjointly lining the waterfront are dozens of cafés and restaurants, as this space is one in every of the most places to eat town.

The Central bourse and also the adjacent Rue St. Ferreol District is the main shopping district in Marseille. conjointly within the Central bourse is the Marseille Historical depository, that contains a preserved hull of a sixth century boat moreover as Greek and Roman historical artifacts and records. different noteworthy museums embody The Musee Cantini, that features art work related to Marseille moreover as modern Art and includes some Picassos. The Musee de la Mode is a fashionable fashion depository that includes over 2000 styles covering the past thirty years roughly.

Marseille's best known landmark is the Basilica of Notre Dame de la Garde, that stands on a hill high higher than town to the south of the port. it's known for the large gilded sculpture of the Madonna and kid which may be seen for miles bent ocean.

Also price visiting is that the lupus erythematosus Painer section, that features narrow stone streets and stairways. This space was dynamited heavily by the Nazis seeking to free the world of resistance fighters and Jews. abundant of the spirit and energy of the region has survived but, as well as the attractive 17th-century edifice de Ville.

There are innumerable lovely previous buildings to be loved in Marseille. a number of the a lot of notable ones square measure the Abbey of St. Victor, La Vielle Charite and also the house.

Tourist coming for their Visit to Marseille can hire a car from **Car Hire Marseille Train Station** for hassle free travel and enjoyment in the city.